The 1977 Totempole

*Warriors of bravery all woven together, Seamed at the edges
Now scattered about Yet, one memoir stands vividly out . . .
our totempole*

*Creasing the page,
And glancing over each memorable scene,
We find shadows of Ourselves so hidden by fate . . .*

*A time when laughter and tears all blended together
And yet, know one really cared . . .*

*We worked with the splendor of doing
We sought for one another
Tired and discouraged
We always found a smile . . .*

*Even those simple scenes are those we glow with pride,
Just sitting here looking over those familiar faces,
I remember the time when . . .*

Triumph and success of all those long hours Has truly brought reward for those who did their best . . .

Yes, those were the days . . .
We leaped with joy,
met our match,
cried with happiness and now those days have all disappeared . . .

*Now we find those embarrassing moments, quite hilarious
The time we joked that it could not be done
It now has come and gone . . .
Looking from one to the other Those fears that haunted us
As we strived for one goal throughout the school That of narrowing the gap between defeat and victory.*

We are now scanning with eagerness as each face appears, Grasping each memory with tender care . . .

*From the youngest to the oldest We find the drive to move ahead
Onward in depth of understanding Alone and in solitude Realizing that even as this page turns those precious reminiscences are fading ever so far away . . .*

MEN TEACHERS

THE STING

These “Our” Teachers

*We only asked They Walk a mile
With Us
Along life's way
But
These are they
With Tireless feet
Educators
True to kind Who
Would not stop Nor Stay behind
But
Sane — perspective
Did
Blaze
A trace across Ol' ignorance face
and Stamped upon
Our Awesome mind
The
Quest for knowledge
For Mankind.*

Seventy-Seven

*Of those who said years ago,
Live it well, once indeed,
We cannot twice, plant the seed.
So truly capture and deeply grasp,
The thoughts and memories, make them last.*

*All the years have come and gone,
My youthful days have plentifully shown.
Through past experiences, I have learned,
The joy of friends, in schooldays gone.*

*The ups and downs and times we had,
Were beautiful memories, though some were sad.
But still the thoughts linger a bit,
And same the "devils" even not dared,
But yet I can say, with fun,
"I did it."*

*This all must end for us this year,
The laughs and tears will soon be gone.
Afterwards in life, we must do our part,
Though some may regret there was a start.
For me, "77" will be so dear.*

Victory In Defeat

*The tears of defeat run very hot.
Why can we not continually taste victory?*

*Defeat humiliates your will.
It crushes the pride
And promotes unrelenting shame.
Why must we taste this concoction,
Would we be human without this sting
So great a pain, yet necessary.
For without it, there is no competition Without competition there's no victory or accomplishment Excluding accomplishment there is no goal and we perish!*

Life Goes On

*We like the trees of the forest Stand tall from time to time.
But as age creeps down upon us as the wind does the trees.*

We find our childhood dreams blowing like the leaves Are the memories scatter with each leave as it touches ground Thoughts of the past or covered and fear of the new begins.

But Mother, like with Mother-nature, Will insure, in minds of wonder;

*Though your fun and play drifts aside
Height is your major goal While years pass, and fun with laughs are scatter.*

*Do not bend a little,
but reach for the sky;*

*Stand tall,
my child of nature,
for your goal is life . . .
And life must go on.*

Spring

*Spring is pretty with flowers and grass,
And all the nice things that come at last.
With pine smells and trees,
With a nice big breeze.*

*The birds all singing,
And all of the ringing,
I'm riding my bike in the sunshine.*

Shelia Craven

Winter's Here Again

*The Happy Bells a ringing,
And the snow on the ground,
Should surely make you smile,
And not make you frown.
The bright lights a shining,
In the dimness of winter's glare, Would make you pass by,
And couldn't help but stare.
The smell of roasting turkey,
And the sound of ringing bells,
Would surely make you stand and say,
I love to hear and smell.
The snow and flakes, we all see,
Would surely make you shout with glee,
I love the winter time you see,
And if you ask, I'll say,
"Yes Sir Ree."*

Nerve Pills Let Me Down

*Don't pity your dentist, Working in a great big mouth,
Where half of the teeth have started north,
The other half started south.*

*Each time I went to see him, Nerve pills help me go,
When he said, "Open wide please,"
The nerve pills said, "No."*

*Now don't think I was frightened, While he extracted my teeth,
The nerve pills didn't like his tools,
So we just went to sleep.*

*I know going to see your dentist,
Is never a big treat,
When you hear, "Wake up nerve pills."
You just lost your teeth.*

From A Lincoln to a Ford

*From the office of Vice President,
To the highest office of state,
Takes a man with courage,
Pride, honesty and faith.*

*A Lincoln once held this office, Bright, shiny and new,
Now a Ford takes over,
Wonder what great things he'll do.*

*Built on class is,
That idles not, orchesitates,
Like sunshine after rain, Comes a Ford after Watergate.*

Seek and Ye Shall Find

If I walk this earth, head down, I'm to blame for problems I've found.

But if I walk with head held high, God will see me and tell me why.

*That problems I see on the ground,
When looking up, are never found.*

McLain

*A GI by the name of McLain
Jumped out the door of a plane,
But the helpless recruit,
Had no Parachute!*

Ten — Four

*Somewhere in heaven,
God has extra space,
Just for Policemen,
Who deserve a special place.*

*When he falls in the line of duty,
Honor won't help him then,
So never let us forget, Danger walks with these men.*

*Each little step is taking
He may not take one more,
But he will be heard in heaven,
"It's me Lord, Ten — Four."*

Parting Seas of Time

Drifting by the moon like path
Facing a trend of time, I do not understand.
Fears and coldness overtake As breezes tip my sails into the direction of my destiny.

Sounds of the roaring stillness Long for the laughter of snow capped waves,
Which followed the sun into the depths Leaving only an echoe of peace.

Stars shine brightly toward the land of before, Reflecting a past of lifeless, endless falls Never to reach the climbing stairway Leading to a puffy, comforting sky.

Lost in thoughts and a burdened heart, Whispers of hope are carried high above.

Angry parting seas encircle my small boat While a guiding hand sweetly caresses the.

The Spiritual Witness

When I beheld the sea, the sky, the land, How well I know...

How well I understand...

That God's omniscience is Incomprehensible to man;

That natural man
Can never understand
Creative power.

Universality,
God's gift of everlasting life

Man's destiny,
Salvation for the lost,
The triune plan.

But, Breath of Life...

God's great Spirit-Gift

Does waft my senses
Far beyond the carnal
Life of man.

Then I and Spirit,
Walking hand in hand,

Do bridge the gap of all man's vanity

And walk with God

In Christ's humanity.

I prostrate there in meek humility,

Through faith,

Am lifted far beyond natural reality;

Am, by His grace,

Partaker of divinity.

Am made to know

Of all infinity.

I'm made to feel His

Omnipresence,

Omnipower.

I'm made to know His Omniscience.

In that hour.

I'm made to live

A holy life;

then,

I'm made to share

This love...

This news...

With men.

Thoughts

*My thoughts are here, your thoughts are there.
Come my love let us gather our thoughts, and release them . . .
in the air.*

*Let them be free to travel far and wide,
for our thoughts,
are not ours to hide.*

*Let them swish with the breeze,
Let them rustle through the trees.
Let them promote freedom for the mind, and peace for the soul.*

*Our thoughts are here for all to know, their endless pathways . . .
are all aglow.*

*Their channels shall search out new trends,
and shall send dreams of a better day, so all shall have want to stay.*

Yes, our thoughts are these, and our thoughts are those . . .

When I think of clouds I image myself as one Free, light and drifting. Able to change expressions with a soft breeze from the wind.
Not confused with the land or the people.
But just free, light and drifting.

Today I saw a rose it smelled so fresh and clean.
It reminded me of life and what it brings.
For each petal there was hope, love and life.
For each thorn there was death, sorrow and pain.
But I looked and saw a bud and there was life again.

I saw some little hands today, fumbling to hang coats out of the way.
I smiled inside,
Watching how hard they tried.
I thought how angry I sometimes get,
But these little hands I could never forget.
How honest they are,
How much love they give,
How thankful just to live.

As one is born to him is given the gift of love and life.
To reap from this gift there is a stride by which all must abide
Can this love and life be so strong many times
I feel so alone, As years go by and pages unfold some are written only in silver others blessed with gold.
Now the sun is set and I am alone.
I ask myself have I taken my love and life in stride?

The above poems were written by Mrs. Joan Layne.

A senior, it seems to unbelievable and graduation always seemed so far in the future. Some of our classmates we'll never see again for their paths lead in another direction. The good times we had here will begin to melt into the past and become a blur. There is a whole new world to enter one to be conquered by us. So we must take what we have received from each other and mold it into the future; OUR FUTURE.

We are alive in the golden days Alive in one another For a season, that cannot be recalled.
If we live to our fullest
Then we live in one another.
Yet will we fade or dissolve
When our paths diverge
To separate horizons?
I think not.
We will have the springtime
Of our memories.
Effervescent and fresh
To look out across
From the shore of yesterday,
To calm and console us
In the sea of today
And bring us quiet
Times and faint smiles for tomorrow.

For Being Near

For being near,

*A host of sparkling smiles
Will adorn your face
With the silver light
Of a summer moon.*

For being near,

The sound of whispers In highest favor will Wander beyond pleased Lips and thrill violent Warriors with precious Harmony, jewel of peace.

For being near,

Passive throngs will gaze Upon proud majesty and Behold with captured Eyes meek majesty.

For being near,

Applause and marvel will Invade your heart with Avid suitors and timid lovers.

For being near,

*Great assemblings will weave A fantasy of brilliant Snow from the purest mountain
To glitter your image
With glowing frost.*

For being near,

Tides of humanity will Breathe delight in a Glimpse of your dark eyes.

For being near,

*You've given more,
For you, above these,
Would have one moment
In my lonely arms.*

Twas The Night Before Graduation

*Twas the Night before graduation, not a sound in the school, Everyone was at home watching "Happy Days" and being cool,
Their caps were all hung by their beds with care,
In hopes that their diploma would soon be there,
The girls were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of secretary jobs danced in their heads,
My Mother with her kerchief and I in my cap,
The Seniors had just awakened from two semesters nap,
When out in front of the gym there arose such a clatter,
We sprang from our seats to see what was the matter,
Away to the door I flew like a flash,
I ran a little too fast and on a nail caught my sash,
The moon on the breast of the new fallen dew, gave a luster of midday to the old building called Warrior U, When what to my wandering eyes should appear,
But a miniature car with eight forwards and one reverse gear,
With a little old driver from the land of Polland,
I knew in a minute that it must be Mr. Strickland, More rapid than turtles his faculty came, and he whistled and cussed and called them by name, Now Cofer, Now Noel, Now Rice, and Russell — On Toney, On Hudson, you all better hustle,
To the top of the gym, to the top of the wall,
Mr. Morgan, you get off or they all might fall,
So up to the gym top the faculty flew,
With the car full of diploma's and Mr. Strickland too,
And then in a twinkling, I heard on the roof,
Some of them look like horses, and that was the pwoof,
As I drew in my head and was turning around, Down through the roof came Ms. McCurry with a bound,
She was dressed in her green pants and on her foots,
She had on that pair of Army orthopedic boots,
A bundle of diplomas she had flung on her back,
And she looked like a gypsy just opening her sack,
Her eyes how they twinkled, her dimples how merry,
Her cheek were like roses, her nose like a cherry,
Her big little mouth was pouting drawn up in a bow,
Her hair was beautiful like new fallen snow,
The stump of a red ink pen held tight in her teeth,
And the wrong answer it encircled, stood out like a wreath,
A wink of her eye and a twist of her head,
This was the part for twelve years I have dread,
She spoke not a word, the class was as somber as a tear,
And filled with emotion in remembering their senior year,
And laying a finger aside her nose,
And giving a nod, up the Graduating Class they rose,
They sprang to the table to receive their diplomas they went,
And a way in to the world they were sent,
But I heard her exclaim as we drove down the road,
"May you have a good life and the burdens of the world not be such a heavy load."*

A Staff of Workers who have fought, laughed, and cried as the pages swept by us. We are equal in all respects. In the shadows was one person, who stood by us, "Miss Linda McCurry" . . . our leader.

Miss Linda McCurry

And now . . . you have come to the end. This is now the final production, "Totempole 77." We set a goal to do our best, and we have attempted . . . yes there are mistakes, but we are only human. The task is done . . .

The emotion surrounding me is filled with a pattern of happiness and sadness. For some, this shall truly be an ending. For others, this is a beginning. The life you have is yours, you shall come to waters where trouble shall seem to drown you, but the calm shore will be found only in the distance.

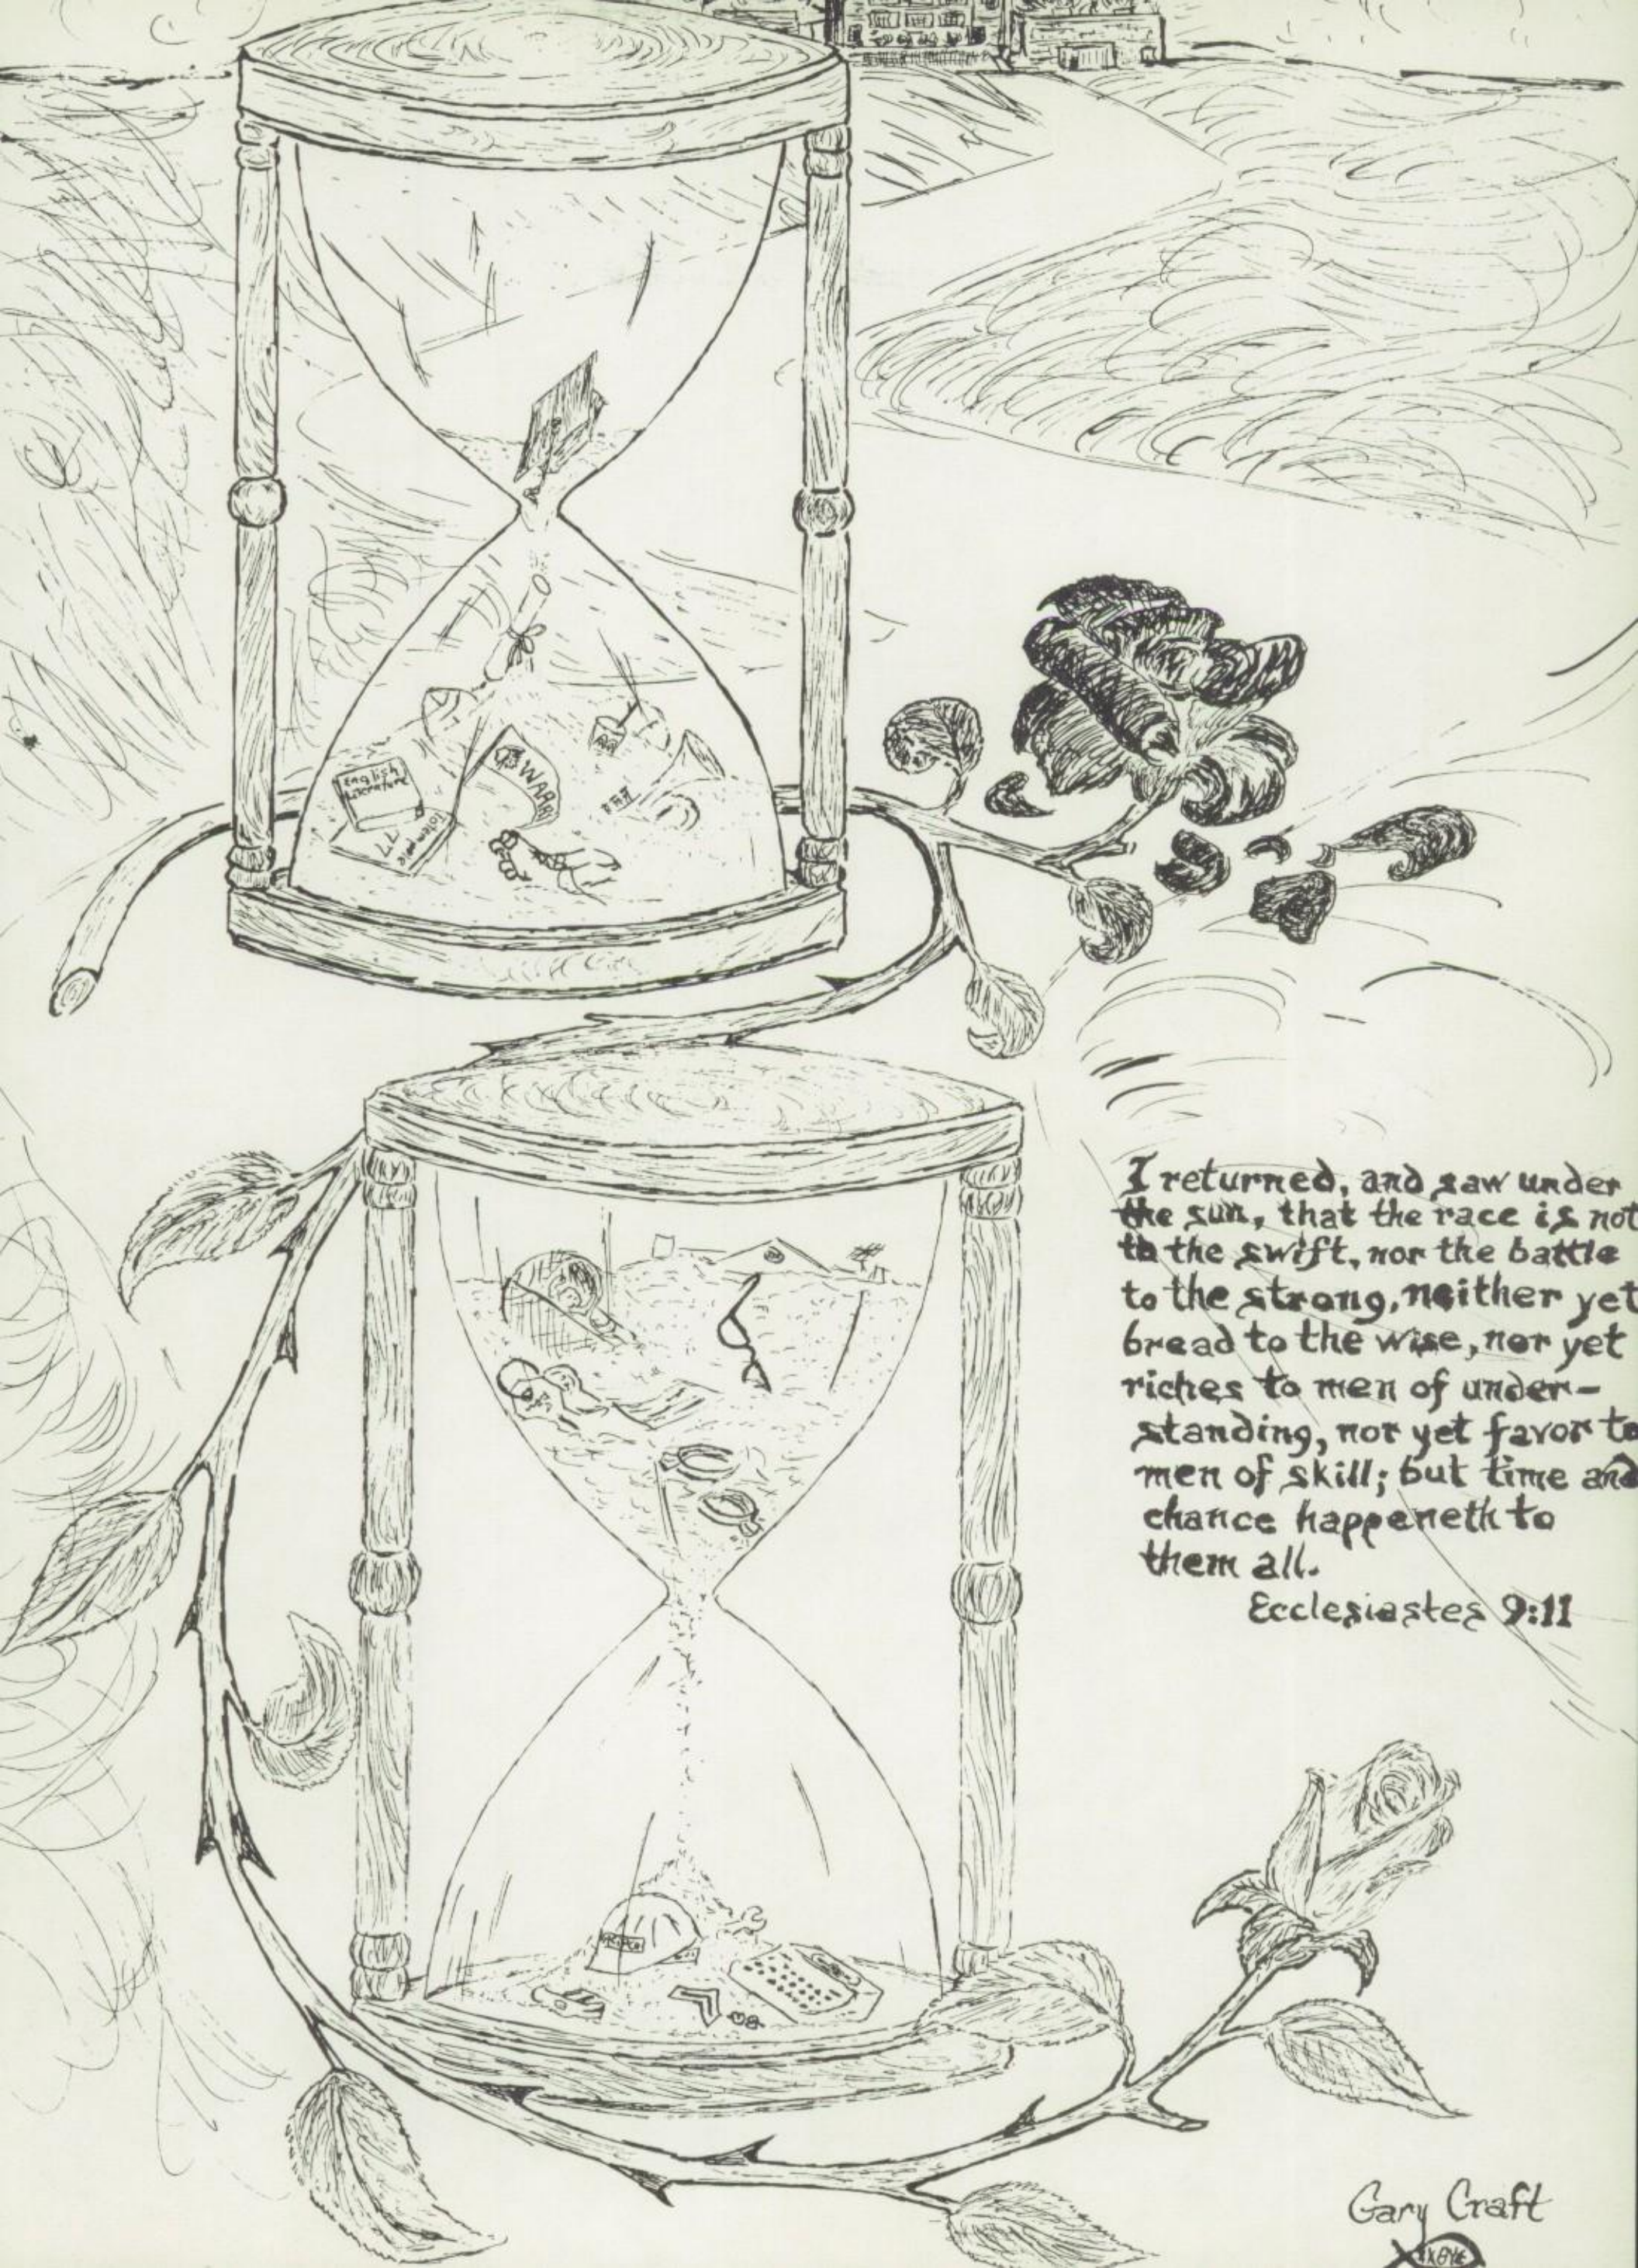

To those of the future, I wish you peace, riches, and love. The success that comes to you is yours to enjoy. As classmates, we part to our different worlds and may you trust in God . . .

We are all Warriors of bravery. We have shared the feelings of being together. The ties we have are bonded by friendship and love.

I thank all those, who have helped in making this book possible. There are many who have helped. To mention names would be a mistake, in that I would probably overlook someone of great importance. This book was funded by the people of our community and surrounding area's, through the purchasing of Ad's. I especially thank these people. Without their support and assistance, there would never have been a book called, "Totempole 77."

Letters such as these are meant for endings . . . The only ending for this book is when it is sealed by dust corroding the top, and the pages have yellowed, and most of all when the people within are lost memories. Until that time, I wish for you to find memories. The sequence of a time when people, and places, were things of everyday life. Look back again and again at the memories that have made you and molded you . . . This is your book . . . your time . . . your life . . . and what ever YOU, yourself make it.

Julie Thomas
Editor

I returned, and saw under the sun, that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, neither yet bread to the wise, nor yet riches to men of understanding, nor yet favor to men of skill; but time and chance happeneth to them all.
